"Your Say"

Independent
Advocacy
Service

The Care Act 2014 says that anyone with

'Substantial Difficulties'

dealing with Health and Social Care, who does not have someone else suitable to support them should have support from an Independent Advocate.

A 'Substantial Difficulty' might include :-

a learning disability;
sensory impairment,
physical disability;

mental health or
older adults.

An Advocate is someone who can make sure you have a voice in the decisions affecting your life.

Making sure Health and Social Care services and others hear your choices, wishes and views when assessing your needs, planning your services and reviewing your support.
